- Support for an increased availability of mid-level employment opportunities in the city
- The City's success in the improvement and beautification of its many local parks
- The COVID-19 pandemic's influence on remote and hybrid-remote options in the workplace
- How the City would be able to assist residents in the transition to a post-pandemic workforce
- The belief that the pandemic accelerated many pre-existing trends, such as pressures on social support systems
- Coquitlam's vision in relation to what types of industries it would like to focus on for the future
- The new tools and opportunities that could be utilized to safeguard future generations in the event of a global pandemic

In response to a question from the Chair, the Manager Economic Development noted that multicultural diversity across the City had afforded significant opportunities to augment the workforce with new skills and talent. He noted the importance of connectivity with multicultural populaces to continue to effectively build the community.

Discussion continued relative to the following:

- The ongoing challenges associated with a limited availability of childcare in the Lower Mainland
- The continued growth of home-based and self-employed businesses and the various avenues to support them
- The challenges associated with a limited availability of commercial work spaces
- Expressions of appreciation for the City's work to meet the needs of evolving community demographics
- How the City could potentially improve the resources available to local immigrants as they establish themselves in the community
- The various grant opportunities that exist in order to support local businesses and to connect them with the workforce

The Manager Economic Development spoke to staff's attention to shifting demographics and the new Statistics Canada census release expected later in the year. He further noted the City's focus on product development relative to the community's diverse populations, and encouraged the Committee members to complete and promote the survey included in his presentation.

3. Canada Day 2022 Event Planning

The Social Planner provided a presentation, referring to on-screen slides titled as follows:

- Appreciation for the inclusion of social connections and the belief that such connections are more readily facilitated through in-person celebrations

- The desire that event-goers be encouraged to leave feedback to identify avenues in which to improve the celebration in future years

In response to a question from the Chair, the Community Social Development Manager responded that although it was traditional for Canada Day to emphasize red and white colours, staff would seek to reduce that focus in light of reconciliation and diversity initiatives. He further noted that such a decision would only be applicable to City displays, and attendees should feel comfortable wearing any colour.

Discussion continued relative to the following:

- The understanding that the Canadian flag's colours are red and white
- The desire that attendees would feel comfortable wearing the colours of their choice
- Recognition that Canada's history predates colonialization

4. Cultural Understanding Project Sub-Committee – Update

The Vice Chair provided an update relative to the work of the Sub-Committee. He noted that, to generate new ideas going forward, there had been productive discussions during the Sub-Committee's review of previous years' Project documents.

- The salience of updated census data as it related to the City and its community members
- Expressions of interest in the receipt of new census data as soon as it became available
- The belief that reviewing festival calendars from prior years could be advantageous in the identification of potential Sub-Committee partners
- The possibility of using social media promotions to advance the Cultural Understanding Project work
- That the Sub-Committee planned to finalize an updated Phase 2 of the project work plan and provide key success metrics to the Committee during a future meeting

In response to a question from the Sub-Committee Leader, the Chair encouraged the Sub-Committee to continue its work and to report back during upcoming Committee meetings. He spoke in support of those interested in reapplying to serve on the Committee in future, and described how, after an advisory committee's work paused for the year, outstanding agenda items could typically be added to the Committee's next work plan by staff for consideration. The Sub-Committee Leader noted that the Project would take a hiatus after the Committee's September meeting, and expressed the hope that the Cultural Understanding Project work would restart in 2023.

The Community Social Development Manager noted that updated demographic information was expected to be available from Statistics Canada in early fall 2022, and undertook to share that information with the Sub-Committee once it had been received.

In response to a question from the Sub-Committee Leader, the Chair noted that the Manager Equity, Diversity and Inclusion had reviewed the Sub-Committee's communications with a view to facilitating inclusive, welcoming verbiage as part of the Project. The Vice Chair noted that he had briefly met with the Manager Equity, Diversity and Inclusion and planned to have a deeper discussion with her in the future.

The Chair thanked the Sub-Committee for its work on the project to date.
